

Tweets

Lisa Limbert @LisaLimbert

22 Oct

Halloween is arriving early Today we are picking up our baby fruit bat! It is coming from Flying fox Conservation Fund. Spooktacular!

Expand

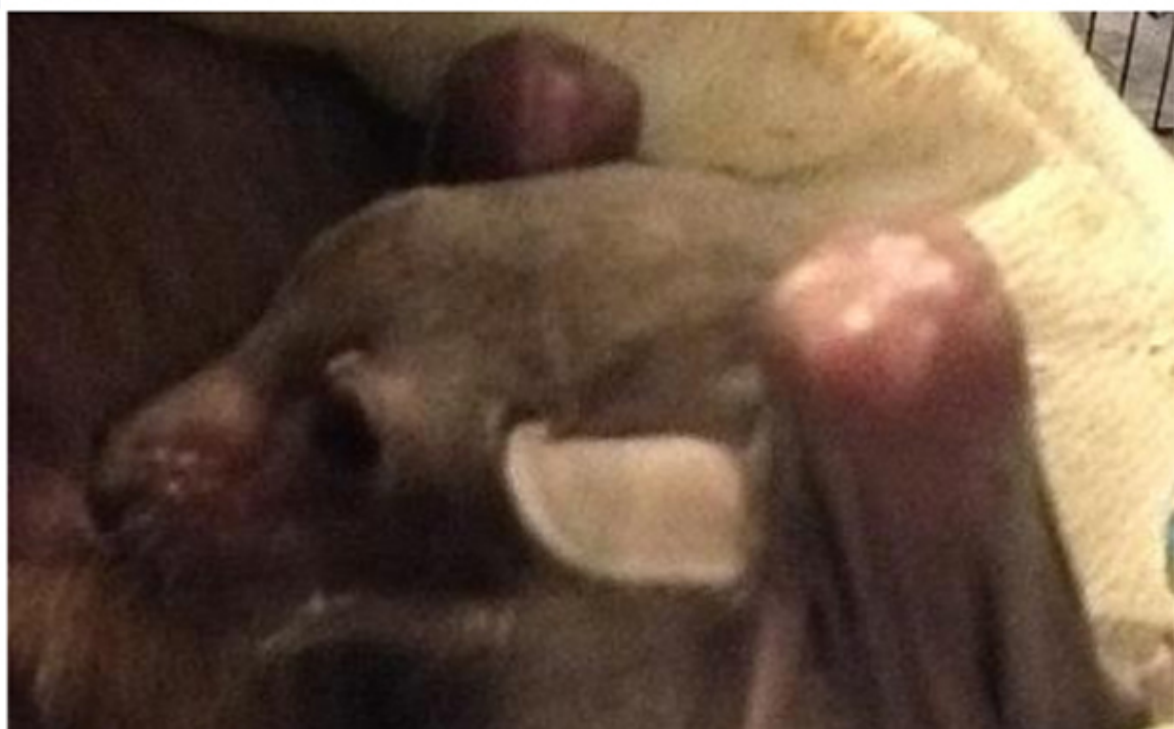

FACEBOOK

Lisa's Creatures

September 19

This little one is still hanging out with mom, but soon will be joining Lisa's Creatures. It is an Egyptian fruit bat. Baby bats literally hang on their mothers while growing up. I am so excited to have this amazing creature help me teach kids about bats. I have been a bat rehabber for several years, providing care for injured and orphaned wild bats.

Like · Comment · Share

14 8

Lisa's Creatures It has been on mine too. For so long! I got the permit a few months ago. I just recently found a captive bred USDA licensed baby. Very important when working with children.

September 19 at 12:13pm · Like

Lisa's Creatures I am looking forward to getting my hands on the little one, as well. I can't wait to feel the wings. The bats I rehab are Mexican free tails. They are much smaller and eat insects. This little fruit muncher will be quite different.

September 20 at 12:10pm · Like

Kristin Wasson Are you by chance getting it from Scott Heinrichs? I saw that he has babies for sale right now?

September 22 at 10:25pm · Like

Lisa's Creatures Yes, my baby bat is coming from Scott. I'm so excited!

September 22 at 10:55pm · Like